TEJAS SHAH

APRIL 30, 2026 ISSUE #32

QUESTION OF THE DAY

Who's the most iconic dog?

Aside from David obviously.

This was a question posed by my India Club friends and I wanted to get your takes.

Here's my personal top 5:

1. Snoopy
2. Scooby-Doo
3. Hachiko
4. Clifford
5. Roadside Romeo (iykyk sleeper hit)

I'm not gonna make a similar list for cats, but if I did, the top spot would be Hello Kitty for sure. Hello Kitty has an unfathomable amount of aura fr. Follow-up question, do you think Snoopy could bag Hello Kitty? Does he have that dawg in him?

SHI THAT HAPPENED

- Started on a new work assignment which has quickly turned into a dumpster fire
- Met some of Ananya's friends this weekend and her incredibly interesting boyfriend Jack, they were nice people
- Called my brother, father, and grandfather this week, lowkey killing the keeping in touch with family game. Brother moved back to ATL with grandparents, so whole family is together and having fun (minus me)

NIGHTMARE OF THE WEEK

Work just became the most nightmarish scenario possible. TL;DR is there's some internal ego politics going on and it's come down to people basically shutting off other people's cloud computing environments willy nilly. Ours is on the list to get shut off so we have to figure out a solution to migrate it elsewhere - and my director pretty much just put all of that pressure to find that solution on me. When I couldn't deliver because I don't have any cloud computing contacts at a firm I just joined, he chewed my head off and then immediately after figured out a solution himself...