ISSUE #20

At the time of you reading this I'm on my way back from my NYC work trip which was probably uneventful. And the only real update I'll have is that I hung out with Lex and that whole friend group I stole from Omkar last Saturday. Since I am going to India in a few days, this is probably my last newsletter of 2025, so I figured I'd do a

I distinctly remember starting the year off really sad because India Club was not looking good and I had just learned I would have to wait till October for my job to start. But it all worked out in the end, all I needed to be was patient and diligent. If I had that low expectations for 2025 and it came out alright, I can't wait for 2026 which I'm actually feeling pretty good about. 2026 gonna be my year frfr, and I can't wait to go into it with all of you guys <3
